President's Awards

The $2,000 President's Award is presented annually to graduating students who have overcome adversity and shown great perseverance in seeking an education at De Anza.

Diana Rendler

Diana Rendler wants to improve the way health care is delivered – after she gains some first-hand experience by working as an emergency medical technician for a few years.

Diana, a 20-year-old San José resident, will graduate from De Anza this year with an associate degree for transfer in Sociology. She plans to earn a bachelor's degree in Sociology at San José State University and pursue a career in health policy.

While earning her associate degree at De Anza, Diana also pursued a longtime interest by taking EMT courses at Mission College. Studying sociology has given her a good foundation for public policy work, she said, and working as an EMT will give her a better understanding of what's needed.

"One way to fix the system is to inform and educate the people who make policy, and inform the people who vote for the people who make policy," she said. "But you have to work in a field for a while before they let you start changing policies."

Diana spent a year at the University of California, Santa Cruz, before deciding to complete her general education requirements at De Anza College.

At De Anza, she found opportunities to pursue her interest in sports and civic activism, along with smaller classes in which it was easier to get to know her classmates.

An internship at the college's Jean Miller Resource Room for Women, Gender and Sexuality provided valuable experience in working on equity issues with a diverse student population, Diana said. She also found time to compete on the women's Cross Country team in the fall and worked at a San José bakery.

Edin Aguilar Vazquez

Edin Vazquez fought traffic for hours each day while commuting from his parents' home in Gilroy to his classes at De Anza College. But he knew all that time in his car was worth it when he got word that he was accepted for transfer to UCLA.

After graduating from De Anza with an associate degree for transfer in Sociology, the 20-year-old plans to take pre-law and economics courses at UCLA, while applying to law school.

Edin came to De Anza after his applications to four-year schools were turned down. "That was an eye-opening experience for me," he said. "I realized I needed to get my stuff together."

He chose De Anza because he wanted a "high-achieving environment" and credits Language Arts Division counselor Monica Ganesh with helping him plan which courses to take. By attending summer classes, Edin was able to meet all his transfer requirements and carve out time for part-time work in restaurants and construction.

On some days, he started with 7:30 a.m. classes and stayed on campus until his evening shift as a volunteer interpreter for a Santa Clara University law clinic that serves low-income families and immigrants.

"I figured if I was going to make the long drive, I might as well make the most of my time" before heading home, he said.

A first-generation college student, Edin said he wants to set an example for his 15-year-old sister. About De Anza, he added, "People here will help you and your professors will challenge you. It provides a great environment to succeed, and the rest is on you."

A. Robert DeHart Scholarship

The $2,000 DeHart Scholarship is presented in honor of De Anza's founding president.

Karlen Kirkland

After learning how to build a community of his peers at De Anza, Karlen Kirkland wants to apply those lessons as he continues his education at San José State University.

The 23-year-old is graduating with an associate degree for transfer in Business and wants to combine his interest in computers and business by earning a bachelor's degree in Management Information Systems.

During his first year at De Anza, Karlen became active in the InterVarsity Christian Fellowship. He began leading Bible study sessions and was club president for two years – organizing a variety of events as membership grew to almost 100 students.

"We focused on building a community where people could feel safe and explore their identity, their struggles, their ethnicity and their faith in relationship to whatever they believe in," Karlen said. "It was an awesome learning process."

Karlen also worked multiple jobs to support himself, and at one point found himself struggling academically. Despite feeling under pressure, he didn't want to seem vulnerable by requesting help.

But when he realized it was OK to ask for assistance, Karlen said he found encouragement from Melinda Hughes, a counselor with Extended Opportunities Programs and Services (EOPS), and Umar Douglas, a counselor with the Men of Color Community and the Office of Outreach.

While he's excited about transferring to a bigger school, Karlen said he'll always feel connected to people he met at De Anza. From his experience, he said, "I understand what it takes to find a family and build a family. It will be awesome to bring that with me to San José State."

Commencement Speaker

Manuel Alonzo Barrios

This year's student commencement speaker is a first-generation college student who plans to become a dentist and one day open a community clinic that's also a resource center for underserved and immigrant families.

Manny Barrios, a 24-year-old Gilroy resident, is graduating this year with an associate degree in Liberal Arts. He worked at multiple jobs while pursuing internships and serving as a student coordinator in HEFAS, a program for undocumented students at De Anza College.

His determination was recognized this year when Manny was awarded the Karl S. Pister Leadership Opportunity Award, which provides $20,000 to a De Anza student who transfers to the University of California, Santa Cruz. He plans to earn a bachelor's degree in Biology and apply to dental school.

Manny has volunteered with an after-school program for disadvantaged children, a homeless shelter in Gilroy and a dental clinic that serves low-income families. He credits his mother with teaching him about compassion and service. A farmworker and single parent, she raised three children after emigrating from Oaxaca, Mexico when Manny was 11.

At De Anza, Manny said, he benefited from mentors and counselors he met through HEFAS, EOPS (Extended Opportunities Programs and Services) and the Men of Color Community. Through HEFAS, he also found himself mentoring other students.

"People have helped me as mentors, and I want to do the same thing to support others," he said.

Manny also helped organize rallies, workshops and services for undocumented students, while being open about his immigration status. The federal program known as DACA has allowed him to work legally while pursuing his studies.

Uncertainty about DACA under the Trump administration has caused plenty of frustration, Manny said. But he added, "I'm still here. It's the drive to pursue a dream, and all the support you get from people who say 'Don't give up,' that makes all the difference."

Academic Regalia

The academic costume worn today can be traced back to the European universities of the 12th and 13th centuries, where scholars and clerics wore hoods and robes to stay warm in unheated buildings. Use of the academic gown came to the United States in 1754 with the founding of what is now Columbia University. Until after the Civil War, students at most universities wore caps and gowns daily while in residence.

Academic dress consists of the cap, gown and hood. The mortarboard is a head-hugging cap topped with a square flat surface from which a tassel hangs. Styling of the gown varies according to the degree of the wearer. An associate degree holder's gown displays the college colors. A bachelor's degree holder wears a simple black gown with long, pointed sleeves. Those with a master's degree wear a more elaborate gown with slit openings in the sleeves. The doctoral gown has bell-shaped sleeves, velvet panels down the front and around the neck, and three velvet bars on each sleeve. In the hoods, the color of the velvet border indicates the type of degree held, while the color of the lining designates the official colors of the institution granting it.

Colors symbolizing academic areas of study are:

De Anza College Overview

De Anza College offers a broad range of academic and career programs, cultural activities, sports and social events to about 20,000 students each quarter. Students can choose from 71 associate degrees and 95 certificate programs. More than 50,000 friends and neighbors participate in De Anza's Community Education programs each year, including the Euphrat Museum of Art, De Anza College Planetarium, noncredit Short Courses and the De Anza College Academy for youth.

Students attending De Anza enjoy the full college experience. They can join a club or start a new one; walk through time at the California History Center; visit the stars at the Planetarium; explore the diversified ecosystems of the Cheeseman Environmental Study Area; or participate on or root for a sports team – there are 17 to choose from. An education at De Anza isn't just about books and tests; students also discover a diversity of people representing cultures from around the world and learn how to become fully engaged, politically aware citizens. The college's Vasconcellos Institute for Democracy in Action helps to advance this goal.

Learning at De Anza College takes place in state-of-the-art facilities, many funded through voter-approved Measures E and C construction bonds. The college is committed to environmental sustainability in building design and operations.

De Anza consistently ranks at or near the top among California community colleges in the number of transfers to CSU and UC. De Anza's top transfer institutions include UC Berkeley, UC Santa Cruz, UC Davis and UC San Diego as well as San José State University and San Francisco State University.
